Summary of Information Received — Confidential

An informant has come forward with matter touching the Queen's conduct before and during her marriage. The information concerns Francis Dereham, lately appointed her secretary, and Thomas Culpeper of the Privy Chamber.

It is alleged that meetings were arranged by a lady of the bedchamber while the court was on progress in the North, and that correspondence passed by a private hand to avoid the household post.

Given the gravity, this is laid before the King in writing only because it cannot in conscience be spoken aloud.

Submitted in strict confidence to His Majesty.
